

CHANGES IN RANKS OF SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Local Musical Organization Pleases Audience in Concert Yesterday at Columbia Theater.

W. E. GREEN CONCERTMASTER

The Washington Symphony Orchestra's personnel sufficiently changed to justify a change in title, to let us say, the "New" Washington Symphony Orchestra gave the only concert of the season yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Theater. Among other changes, Mr. William E. Green is now first violinist and concertmaster, in place of Mr. Herman Rakemann, resigned. Mr. Hammer received a warm greeting from the audience when he took his place at the conductor's desk.

The first number, the Melpomene overture of Chadwick, showed very careful drill throughout in phrasing, in a skillful balancing of the choir, and some beautiful shading and mingling of the timbres.

It is always interesting to hear an orchestral work performed under the direction of the composer. It is especially interesting when the work is national in character, and all the more so when the national type is one's own. Mr. Hammer's "Indian Rhapsody" performed yesterday, his second work on Indian themes, had all this and much more to commend it. The work is a contrapuntal treatment of certain Chippewa themes; the melodies, which are of the primitive melody type, are of the most beautiful in character. The work is a contrapuntal treatment of certain Chippewa themes; the melodies, which are of the primitive melody type, are of the most beautiful in character.

Two soloists were introduced: Elias Breekin, the young violinist, played Max Bruch's beautiful concerto in G minor, a work that demands not only a high degree of technique on the part of the soloist, but also fine concerted work on the part of the orchestra. Both soloist and orchestra rose to the demands of the work on this occasion. Mr. Breekin is master of a skillful technique and a prompt, elastic equipment of tonal variety. His cantabile in the slow movement was very beautiful. In very rapid work his tones are not always faultless, on the other hand his tones are so generally good, and his good tones so very sweet in quality as to render criticism almost a quibble. It will be remembered that Elias Breekin, the promising boy violinist, made his debut not more than six years ago, in Washington, under the kindly encouragement of the Friday Morning Music Club. He is now almost man; and he has made long strides in his art since then. These six years he has passed under the instruction of Mr. Knudsen.

Miss Elizabeth Butler Howry, soprano, sang the aria "Il est doux, il est bon," from Massenet's L'Amour. Miss Howry has a very sweet, clear lyric voice, and her interpretation of the aria was greatly to the pleasure of the audience; she was recalled more than once, but declined to sing a second number.

CAMERA TAKES GUN'S PLACE IN NEW SPORT

George Shiras, Aid to Goethals on the Canal, Describes Device Used by Photo-Hunter.

George Shiras, 24, who has just arrived in Panama to assist Col. Goethals in making the Canal Zone a large and safe haven for birds and animals, is the originator of a new sport, the photography of wild animals and the pioneer hunter with the camera. Mr. Shiras' most recent contribution on the subject of the new sport form of sport, camera-hunting, is in the shape of a communication to the National Geographic Society.

"A camera and accessories can be so arranged that any animal or bird and many a reptile, however large or small, agile or cunning, may have its picture faithfully recorded, during daylight or darkness, without the immediate presence of a human assistant," writes Mr. Shiras. "I have used many of the devices of the trapper rather than the hunter, substituting the automatic camera for the trap and using the same baits and lures in favorable localities and during the season of the year when prices are likely to be high."

Mr. Shiras sets his camera and flash-light before darkness. A string across the runway, along which the animal is expected to come, or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal do the rest.

FRANCIS B. SAYRE TO LECTURE

HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED BADLY

Would Break Out in Pimples or Bumps. Hair Came Out in Handfuls. On Body in Dry Scaly Form. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Entirely Cured in Two Weeks.

New Dale, N. C.—"My head first broke out and itched and burned so badly I could hardly stand it. It would break out in pimples or bumps then it would itch so that I would scratch it raw. Then it would come a dry, scaly like dandruff. My hair came out by handfuls and what I had left was dry and lifeless. When it came on my body it came in a dry, scaly form and itched and when I would scratch the dry scab off it would burn and the skin looked like it had been stuck full of pins."

"I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample and when I had used it all up I decided it had helped me so I sent to the drug store and got two cakes of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment. I washed with the Cuticura Soap in hot water and then put the Cuticura Ointment on and in two weeks I was entirely cured." (Signed) James H. Robinson, June 17, 1913.

For treating poor complexion, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorite for more than a generation. Sold everywhere. Liberal samples sent mailed free, with 25¢ Blue Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T," Boston.

"If men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp."

ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

Something to Keep the Boys and Girls from Going Out for Amusement.

The Herald's song book, "Songs That Never Grow Old," affords the kind of entertainment that will be enjoyed by the whole family. In this volume are old favorite songs that are loved by young as well as old. It is published in two styles of binding. The paper cover style is sufficiently strong for ordinary purposes, but, of course, the book bound in English cloth is the more durable.

Both books are bound so that they open flat and they both comprise all the old favorite songs as well as the many portraits of leading vocal artists, some of which are shown in costume.

It is not unusual for readers to inquire where they can get the words to this old song, or to that one—some old favorite that has been recalled to memory—and here are all the old favorites bound together in one volume. Indeed, it consists of seven books in one, for in it there are home songs, love songs, patriotic, sacred and college songs, and also operatic and national songs.

Read the song book coupon printed in another column of this issue and clip it at once for this great offer must be brought to an end within a few days. Only one coupon is required now.

"The Herald Song Book" on sale at the following places: F. G. Smith Piano Company, 127 F street northwest; House & Herrmann, Seventh and I streets; Charles M. Stief, pianos, 108-109 F street northwest; Adams' News Depot, Ninth and G streets northwest; Roland Warner, 82 Ninth street northwest; Adams' Depot, Mount Pleasant branch, 2740 Fourteenth street northwest; W. B. Holtzclaw, 150 Pennsylvania avenue northwest; and E. J. Ervin, Fourteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

URGE SUM FOR FREE CAR RIDES

Commissioners Want Provision for Policemen and Firemen.

Although opposing bills introduced in Congress authorizing free street car rides for members of the police and fire departments, the District Commissioners are working to have an appropriation made to meet the street railway transportation expenses incident to the discharge of official duties.

The opposition of the Commissioners to free rides for policemen and firemen is based on the theory that the practice would retard the trend of legislation doing away with the tax.

A majority of citizens of Washington, it is said, believe policemen and firemen should be given free street car rides and many persons have so expressed themselves to the Commissioners.

Under the Capitol Dome.

An adverse report on the proposal to improve Fishing Creek in Anne Arundel County, Md., was made to the House by the board of army engineers.

The Senate passed the bill raising the American Minister in Argentina to the rank of an Ambassador. The new position carries a salary of $17,500 a year.

The Senate today passed the Chamberlain bill authorizing the use of all revenues without the immediate presence of a human assistant," writes Mr. Shiras. "I have used many of the devices of the trapper rather than the hunter, substituting the automatic camera for the trap and using the same baits and lures in favorable localities and during the season of the year when prices are likely to be high."

Chairman Clayton of the House Judiciary Committee named a subcommittee to investigate the impeachment charges against the Chief Justice of the District Supreme Court. The inquiry probably will begin the latter part of this week.

Senator Swanson yesterday declared that the postal savings bank system is not yet self-supporting. He made this statement in defense of the bill removing the limit from the amount, which any person may deposit in a postal savings bank in a month.

A tie vote was taken in the House Judiciary Committee on proposals to take up and set a date for final action on the Hobson resolution for a national prohibition law and also pending resolutions for woman suffrage. This tie vote has the effect of temporarily killing both the prohibition and woman suffrage issues.

The House Interstate Commerce Committee reported favorably the Henry resolution requesting the Interstate Commerce Commission to make a thorough investigation of trans-continental railroad rates and their relation to coastwise steamship rates as well as their bearing on traffic through the Panama Canal.

"There is absolutely no interest that the government has in any of the ramifications of the 'Trust' case," said Assistant Attorney General Wallace. Mr. Wallace explained that several months ago the Department had considered a phase of the Trust case and it was definitely decided then that the United States had no interest in it. An appeal in this case will be taken by the State of New York to the Supreme Court of the United States and Judge Aldrich's decision will be defended by counsel for Trust.

The administration anti-trust bills are ready for reintroduction in the House. Chairman Clayton, of the Judiciary Committee, said the four bills when reintroduced would be in the shape of an omnibus measure. It is reported that the labor element won a partial victory in the committee and that the trust measure will include the Clayton contempt bill and the Clayton anti-injunction bill, which passed the House last session but failed in the Senate. The committee is understood, will not include the Bartlett bill exempting labor unions from prosecution under the Sherman law.

Representative Nelson, a member of the House Judiciary Committee announced at its meeting that he would submit a minority report recommending the rejection from the House of Representative McDermott of Illinois, who the majority of the committee proposed to censure because of his connection with the lobbyists of the National Association of Manufacturers. Representative McCoy, of New Jersey, informed the committee he would file a minority report recommending that the House take up the McDermott case without recommendation from the committee. The committee voted to report out a resolution previously agreed upon recommending that McDermott be censured.

By an order issued by the Commissioners yesterday, responsibility for the enforcement of the license law has been placed on the police.

This action was the result of a report submitted by Wade H. Coombs, license clerk, who stated that "while it is a violation of the law for any one to engage in business without first obtaining a license, the police department renders this office practically no assistance and shifts the entire responsibility upon the license department, which has two inspectors to cover the entire District."
